To Whom It May Concern:

May 30, 2013

I would like to recommend the talents, skills and expertise of Sharon Morris, Kent Culverhouse and Gene Lock as it applies to facility consulting, design and construction management. I have utilized the services of these three individuals for four projects totaling more than $4 million dollars and have great trust in their abilities.

Each project has brought its own set of challenges and in each situation Sharon, Kent, and Gene helped us evaluate our options and make sound decisions about how to proceed. The consulting side of their services has been right on target and the solutions were well executed from design through completion. Along the way they have dealt with narrow lots, poor soils, asbestos abatement and even a hurricane during construction. Each challenge was successfully met.

I have been impressed with their ability to devise equally effective solutions for different markets. In Vicksburg they designed a new branch office to emulate our Main Office and enhanced our established branded image. At Raymond, on the Hinds College Campus, they were able to design an exterior in keeping with the traditional campus, while proving a modern interior that appeals to college students. At our 17,000-sf, two-story Main Office, they accomplished an extensive update while keeping us open for business and retaining selected original elements of the interior to contain cost. At Yazoo City, they shelled out an older bank building and rebuilt it from the inside out, while adding a drive-up canopy. The result was a like-new facility with a sleek, modern interior.

We have relied on the counsel of Sharon, Kent and Gene for almost 10 years to guide us in our facility development and we have been rewarded with facilities that are a fit for our individual markets. We have found them to be professionals with integrity and have been well pleased during our long association. Please call me if you have questions.

Sincerely,
